

In Too Deep

A very wise person once told me (and I quote) "Never drive through water in the road after a heavy rain, cause it's always deeper than you think."

Good advice, but it doesn't seem like the young lady involved in this little incident ever heard it. I'm not sure what made this hole so deep. Perhaps it was construction, maybe sink hole, or it could've been gophers. Whatever it was it doesn't take a rocket scientist to see that driving thru was a mistake this driver won't soon forget. Folks, the next time you encounter a big lake of water in the road, just remember ... it's always deeper than you think!

