

If it were a snake ...

... wait a minute, it is a snake. This photo sent in by one of our users shows a crewman taking care of this unusual preflight problem.

Remember, wild animals are not necessarily found in the wild. Stray cats, rats, raccoons, and snakes are only a handful of the creatures that can be found making their homes in our back yards and workplaces. They're scared and, when backed into a corner, may attack before you ever see them.

Be alert to your surroundings. You never know what might be slithering around.
