

Bad Day for Fishing

Whoa! This is like a scene from "The Perfect Storm"...big wave hits boat, Captain clutches the wheel and screams for more. Y'know, every year I hear about plenty of SAR missions flown by the Coast Guard to rescue sailors caught in bad weather. I also hear about plenty of boats and crews that never return.

Now I know you just can't trust what a weatherman says, but if you are planning a boating trip, check the boob-tube first to make sure there isn't a nor'easter lurking over the horizon.

Same goes for hiking, camping, or any outdoor activity. You don't want to get caught two hours from shelter when a thunderstorm is bearing down on you.