

Big Truck, Small Truck

Short version: Big truck parks for lunch. Small truck sneaks up and parks right under big truck's wheel. Big truck driver finishes his bologna sandwich, belches, and then drives off. He stops when he realizes that the crunch he hears is not the soda can he tossed out the window.

Fortunately, the driver of the red truck was not in the vehicle at the time.

What's the lesson? If you can't figure it out, give me a call. My number is 1-800-BLIND-SPOT. Every vehicle has one. When you drive or park your vehicle, keep that in mind. Them big semi-trucks and trailers out there will win any battle in the war for space...and you've got to respect that.

Return to Photo of the Week