

Give Me a "D'oh"

They say life is full of learning experiences. Some of life's lessons are bigger than others. Just ask the guy who was responsible for this two million-dollar mess.

The story goes that the pilot had problems starting his aircraft. It had a dead battery. So with the ignition on and a little choke he attempted to start the aircraft manually (i.e. swinging the prop). It worked!

Unfortunately, the pilot had the brakes off, and I hear my favorite sound effect ... "D'oh!" There were no chocks in place, either. Double "D'oh!" Needless to say the plane got away from him and mowed down six of the local flying club's birdies.
