

Saving Dummies

May 9, 1968 - US Naval Station, Miramar, CA...Crash crewmen are nearly obscured in a shower of light water as they pull a dummy pilot from the cockpit of an aircraft hulk ignited for a training exercise.

This type of intense training is an effective method of preparing for the worst. Just like motor vehicle crash tests, the more dummies lost in these types of "accidents", the more pilots saved in real mishaps.