

Life in the Fast Lane

Drinking and driving ... two words that everyone knows don't mix, and yet some just can't learn to separate. The unfortunate result for the driver of this Mustang was death. All too often we hear about drunk drivers killing themselves and others in horrible wrecks. The three drunk passengers in the back seat survived (although I have no idea how) after the driver wrapped the car around a tree and it broke in half.

If you know someone who plans to drink and drive ... take responsibility and stop them. Take their keys. Disconnect their battery. Let the air out of their tires. Call a cab. Call a friend. Tie them to a chair. Lock them in the bathroom. But whatever you do ... don't let them get behind the wheel! Their life, and yours, depends on it.

Whether it's you or someone else ... stop driving under the influence before it starts. Otherwise, your life in the fast lane may take a permanent detour down a dead-end street.